

Design and Finish Disclaimer

All renderings and finishes displayed in any and all marketing material(s) are the developer's intended finish (including but not limited to specific heights, measurements, dimensions, material choices, finish types, and any other pictured/rendered materials). All finishes and final product is subject to material availability. Any stated heights and measurements are intended to be exact; however, in some instances measurements may or may not be off by fractional amounts. Should any substitutions be made, the developer intends to do so at equal value and finish to the proposed design. Note that all colors and finish textures in any and all renderings are approximate and that colors on the screen of any electronic device may vary from the actual finished product(s). Appliances, light fixtures and any other non-construction materials are subject to change based upon both availability and the purchaser's final decision. Any and all square footage quoted is the developer's intended size and subject to any final adjustments made or required by authorities having jurisdiction. Until the final product is completed and turned over to the end-user, all items are subject to change without notice due to supply chain or other issues affecting the developer's ability to provide the illustrated items.